WOULD BE SHAME TO SHOOT

A gentle but firm burglar held Miss Julia Green and her mother at the point of a pistol for several minutes last night, while he destroyed all possible means of reaching the police and then locked them in the house.

Miss Green and her mother had been down town. When they entered the living-room of their home at 1120 Wyoming avenue they discovered on one of the chairs a hat, an overcost and a strange-looking brief case.

A couple of magazines lay on the brief case. The women thought it was a magazine solicitor. Then they saw a shadow moving about upstairs. Mrs. Green, for a mement, hoped it

Governor Kindly Solves Problem of Cigar Butt A cigar butt raised a question of ethics in the office of Governor

Sproul, 1512 Chestnut street, today. A visitor placed the weather-beaton an ash tray as he talked with the Governor. After a long talk he started to leave, but forgot which eigar was his. He figured if he took the butt it might look like a "bid" for one of Mr. Sproul's perfectos. If he left the butt it might be out of harmony with the somewhat luxurious surroundings of the office. He started for the door when the Governor laughed and called out: "Hey, there, park this cigar out-
